Advocacy & Engagement

Let us be your voice in Washington.

ElevatingHOME and VNAA advocate for regulations and legislation to support the unique interests of home-based care providers with a clear focus on the future. As a member, you are represented by a national organization with a long-standing and trusted relationship with Congress, the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS), the Medicare Payment Advisory Commission (MedPAC), the Office of the Inspector General (OIG), and other key federal agencies. We offer guidance and resources on emerging policy initiatives to help you prepare and respond appropriately and guide new program development. We also provide support, education, and clarification on Federal regulatory issues.

ElevatingHOME and VNAA Public Policy Priorities

We advocate on behalf of home health and hospice providers that offer comprehensive health care to Medicare, Medicaid, uninsured and under-insured patients as well as an array of community benefits. While the policy agenda is distinctive in terms of the mission and values of its nonprofit, safety net members, it addresses issues that impact all home health and hospice providers. Our advocacy efforts center on two key areas:

• Core Support
  • Secure and sustainable provider payment and patient access.
  • The ability to work to full scope and training for licensed professionals.

• Forward Focus
  • Flexibility and expansion from traditional fee-for-service models.
  • Alignment of high-quality and outcomes driving home-based care's value.
  • Focus on palliative and advanced illness options.

We frequently collaborate on top advocacy issues with industry leading organizations, state associations, committees, and coalitions to advance these public policy priorities and strengthen our unified voice.

We offer our members critical resources on current legislative issues, including:

• Home Health Payment Reform
• Home Health Groupings Model (HHGM)
• Face to Face Medicare Documentation
• Access to Rural Providers

• Hospice Payment Reform
• Home Health Care Planning and Improvement Act
• Value Based Purchasing and Bundles
• ACO Flexibility

Education
Your path to professional development.

In collaboration with expert faculty and top professionals in the home-based care industry, ElevatingHOME and VNAA provide an extensive array of educational programming and resources to support our members. We understand clinical staff must stay current on new treatments, technology, and procedures to deliver quality care. Likewise, agency leaders face changes in business practices, regulations, and reporting requirements. As a member, you receive access to timely webinars, roundtables, calls, and conferences, specifically designed to address your entire agency’s operational needs. Members receive access to innovative learning management platforms in addition to teleconferences and in-person meetings, often with CEUs available, and a subscription to Home Healthcare Now—a bimonthly journal for nurses.

Exclusive educational member benefits include:

- Education On-Demand. Our popular educational programs, including webinars and presentations, are available to members on-demand through the ElevatingHOME website. Members can access a library of past webinars and conference presentations to download and view at any time. New content is added to the library regularly.

- Blueprint for Excellence. A comprehensive, web-based quality improvement and workforce training resource for the home-based care industry designed to provide information, tools, and training for care providers, policymakers, researchers, and others with a stake in ensuring high-quality care is delivered across the continuum.

- Clinical Procedure Manual (CPM). VNAA's award-winning publication and a staple of home-based care agencies committed to ensuring high quality care for each patient at each visit. VNAA's 20th Edition of the CPM contains more than 300 clinical procedures, fully reviewed by specialists to eliminate any need for your agency to produce a clinical procedure manual of its own. The expansion of the 20th edition to a fully searchable web-based platform ensures access to standards of care anywhere a patient receives care. Members are eligible for substantial discounts on hard copies and digital access.

Collaborative Networking
Join us in shaping the future of home-based care.

ElevatingHOME and VNAA provide excellent networking opportunities, both virtual and in-person. As a member, you have ample opportunity to make meaningful connections with executive-level providers, state associations, innovators, advocates, and industry partners. Allow us to facilitate your collaborative relationships across the industry, as we work together to shape the future of home-based health care.

Collaborative networking opportunities for members include:

• National Leadership Conference. Our annual National Leadership Conference convenes home-based care’s top thought leaders, industry experts, and legislators from across the country for several days of networking, forums, and best-in-class education. Members receive one complimentary registration and significant discounts on subsequent registrations.

• Member Collaboration Calls, Roundtables, and Interest Groups. A dynamic collection of members who meet regularly via teleconference for productive discussion on key industry issues and developments. Focusing on relevant topical issues, members share in-depth information and fresh insights from across the industry. Groups are organized based on member interests and requests.

• Allied Member Network. Our Allied Member Network consists of a rapidly growing assembly of state associations that serve home-based care providers nationwide. Allied members play a key role in the collaboration between our provider members and industry stakeholders by providing critical data on federal legislation and regulations impacting individual state health care programs.

• Corporate Advisory Forums. A biannual gathering of corporate partner executives and the ElevatingHOME and VNAA Boards of Directors to discuss collaboration and transformation within the industry. These forums provide the opportunity for members to network with senior executives from both health care agencies and corporate organizations serving the home-based care industry.
